

Making the Case for Healthy Food Access: A Regional, State, and Local Viewpoint

Jenny Eyer

CHILDREN AT RISK

Senior Policy Analyst,

Manager, Center for Child Health, Research and Policy

children atRisk

The Facts

---

- Food access issues are concentrated in the south
- Texas has the largest grocery gap in the nation
- Diet related disease will cost Texas $32.5 billion by 2030

The Facts

---

- A lack of access to nearby stores selling fresh food may increase residents' risk of developing the signs of early heart disease
- Research from Philadelphia has shown that comprehensive approaches to combat obesity through fresh food access are needed, not grocery development alone.
- Outcomes analysis from the Philadelphia Healthy Corner Store Network revealed increased sales, improved neighborhood environment and higher property values in areas with corner stores enrolled in the network.

Making the Case: Local Level

The Dallas Healthy Food Retail Initiative (HFRI)

- Collaboration between city wide partners is essential
- Work with leaders in identified communities and neighborhoods
- Strategically determine a best fit program
- Utilize print and social media!

6: Areas with Greatest Need

Data: Texas Department of State Health Services, 2010-2011;
Trade Dimensions Retail Database, 2014;
US Census, American Community Survey, 2008-2012.

Making the Case: State Level

---

Texas Grocery Access Investment Fund Program

- Recognize and utilize the relationships between state and local programs
- Frame the conversation, focus on issue most palatable
- C@R is currently working with local and state level American Heart Association teams to advocate for HFFI bill in next legislative session.

Making the Case: Regional Level

---

Voices for Healthy Kids

- Utilize partnerships
- Regular calls to report updates, share thoughts, successes and hurdles
- Coordinating grassroots events and activities
- Central location for supporting materials

children atRisk

How can you help?

---

Dallas Healthy Food Retail

- Visit #eatfreshdallas on Twitter and Facebook for information, online petition, and to join the conversation
- Contact city council person in support of funding a Healthy Food Retail Initiative in the city budget

Texas Healthy Food Financing Initiative Efforts

- Contact your Texas State Senator and/or Representative indicating support of HFFI
- Contact the American Heart Association State team to participate in grassroots events supporting HFFI for Texas

Thank you!

Jenny Eyer
CHILDREN AT RISK
jeyer@childrenatrisk.org

children atRisk