

The 2015 Southern Obesity Summit is dedicated to Deb Hubsmith, founder and Director of the Safe Routes to School National Partnership. Deb passed away on August 18, 2015, after a nearly two year battle with acute myeloid leukemia.

Deb dedicated her life and career to advancing Safe Routes to School and healthy, active communities, so that all children would have the opportunity to be healthy and active, every day, for the rest of their lives.

Congressman Oberstar used to say, “We’re changing the habits of an entire generation.”

Deb’s mark on the world will improve life for countless generations.

As we kick off the Southern Obesity Summit, let us mirror Deb's passionate and collaborative spirit to keep the momentum going; each of us doing our part to improve our neighborhood, state, and nation until ALL children are able to be healthy and physically active.
